

Arthur became president of DOBER LIDSKY MATHEY in 1988, and has served as a planning consultant for colleges and universities since 1971. In this time he has participated in several hundred assignments. For the three years prior to his consulting work, he was Assistant Director of Long-range Planning for the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Recent campus planning includes work for Austin Peay State University, Bowling Green State University, College of St. Benedict/St. John's University, Chattanooga State Community College, Clemson University, Harvard Graduate School of Education, Harvard School of Public Health, Middle Tennessee State University, St. Lawrence University, Stetson University, The College of Wooster, Union College, and Vassar College.

Over 80 science and engineering studies and programs including: Carleton College, Colgate University, Georgia Tech, Hamilton College, Lafayette University, Syracuse University, Tennessee Tech University (Engineering, Biology, Chemistry), Trinity University, University of Chicago, and UNC Charlotte (Science & Engineering). Facility Programs for new campuses include the Aga Khan University in Pakistan, The American University in Cairo, Asian University for Women in Bangladesh, Skolkovo Institute of Science and Technology in Skolkovo, Russia, University of Botswana in Maun, Botswana, the NYU Abu Dhabi Campus, Cyprus Metropolitan University, and Universidad Panamericana, Mexico. Space needs assessment for many campuses including Cornell University and Ohio State.

Arthur has served on facility review panels for the National Science Foundation (NSF); and has been a Principal Investigator for a NSF study that identified an ideal planning process and facility standards for secondary school science, math, and technology education programs. He has given lectures, presentations, and invited papers on campus planning at such organizations as Society for College and University Planning (SCUP), the Council for Undergraduate Research (CUR), the International Association for College Unions, No Name Facility Conference, Quality Education for Minorities Network (QEM), and the Municipal Art Society of New York. He has been a faculty member of Project Kaleidoscope (PKAL) from 1992-2010, and has been the only non-institutional member on the PKAL National Steering Committee.

Through his writing and lectures, Arthur teaches other professionals, college and university administrators, and faculty about planning and the campus planning process. He has taught campus planning as a faculty member of SCUP's Integrated Planning Institute-the three-day workshop is Step 2 of a three-step certificate program. Arthur was a leader in creating the Institute and its curriculum.

Arthur has contributed articles to numerous professional publications, including: The New England Journal of Higher Education, New Directions for Higher Education, Facilities Manager, APPA (The Association of Higher Education Facilities Officers), Dean & Provost, The Chronicle of Higher Education, College Planning and Management, Planning Higher Education. Most recent publication, he co-wrote "Perspectives on Campus Planning", Meeting Challenges of Purpose and Place, by: DOBER LIDSKY MATHEY, Arthur J. Lidsky and George G. Mathey, June 2015.

It is noteworthy that as a non-academic, he was elected Fellow to the American Association for the Advancement of Science (FAAAS), 2012 "for distinguished contributions to shaping the higher education landscape through integrative attention in planning cultural, intellectual, and physical environments for learning." He was also chosen to receive the Architecture Alumni Achievement Award for 2014 by the College of Art and Architecture at Clemson University "in recognition of your outstanding creative and professional achievement". In 2006 he was presented with the Society for College and University Planning (SCUP): Founder's Award for exceptional achievement in Higher Education Planning.
